

Group Discussion Document

Ice Breaker:

- Share a memorable experience you had when voting or participating in a civic activity. What emotions or thoughts did you have during that time?
-

Short Summary of the Sermon:

In this sermon, the pastor addresses the upcoming election and the importance of Christians carrying biblical principles to the ballot box. He emphasizes that Christians should not follow political parties or leaders blindly but should instead follow ideas rooted in Scripture. The sermon highlights four key ideas: God's warnings about government, the dangers of lawlessness, the sanctity of the unborn, and God's desire for liberty. The pastor urges the congregation to vote with these principles in mind, stressing the need for revival and the importance of exercising their rights to influence the nation positively.

Group Questions:

1. What stood out to you the most from the sermon, and why?
 2. How do you interpret the pastor's message about not following political parties or leaders but following ideas? How can this be applied in today's political climate?
 3. Discuss the biblical warnings about government and lawlessness mentioned in the sermon. How do these warnings resonate with current events?
 4. How does the sermon challenge your views on the sanctity of life and the protection of the unborn?
 5. What are some practical ways Christians can advocate for liberty and freedom in their communities?
-

Life Application:

- Reflect on how you can incorporate the four key ideas from the sermon into your daily life and decision-making processes. Consider how these principles can guide your interactions, conversations, and civic responsibilities.
-

Challenge:

- This week, take time to pray for wisdom and discernment as you prepare to vote. Research the candidates and issues on your ballot, evaluating them through the lens of the biblical principles discussed in the sermon. Share your insights with a friend or family member to encourage thoughtful and informed voting.